Satisfaction of the soul

Dr. Laura Schlesinger, a popular radio host who offers advice regarding personal problems, is a strong advocate of getting one's spiritual needs met first. The psychologist insists that trying to find happiness through acquisition of things and seeking immediate gratification of one's wants will not satisfy one's soul. She writes:

“If we don't nourish our spiritual needs, no amount of material success or public recognition will fill us up. If we don't believe our life and work serve some higher purpose, no amount of activity or acquisitions will bring us peace of mind.

“Religion, I believe, is probably the most important component of a well lived life, because it points out the meaning of life and—by teaching the values of cooperation, sacrifice, compassion, and love—provides a road to God.

All This Awaits You...

May I share a partial list of what awaits you at God's table?

- You are beyond condemnation (Romans 8:1).
- You are delivered from the law (Romans 7:6).

Give Us This Day

Lord, give us this day the other person's point of view.

Teach us to respect what another may say, even if it is directly opposed to our own opinions.

Teach us not to interrupt, and lead us out of the temptation to look down our noses at those who are unlike us.

Forgive us our arrogance, and help us forgive those who are arrogant against us.

For thine is the righteousness—not just ours, nor just theirs.

Help us to understand that we shall all agree with thee...by and by Amen.
